Talk about money

Japan is getting more expensive

- Tax free shopping is going away November 2026 That is 10% off everything!
- Kyoto already has dual-pricing for tourists
- On the way to introduce an accommodation tax up to ¥10,000 (~€55)
- Visa fees rising (for non Dutchies)

Changes Are Coming to Tax-Free Shopping in Japan

March 17, 2025 | JNTO - Japan National Tourism Organization

From November 1, 2026, the tax-free shopping system for inbound visitors to Japan will be revised, shifting to a refund-based system.

Under the current system, visitors who make purchases at designated stores are automatically exempted from the 10% consumption tax at the point of purchase upon presenting their passport.

The screenshot shows the AndyB Travels website. The header features a logo with the text "AndyB Travels" and a "0" icon. The navigation menu includes "Home", "En Route Blog", "News", "About", "Ride the Rails Podcast", "DiscoverByRail", and "#AllTheLinesEU". Below the menu are links for "Travel Resources", "Contact", "AndyB in the Media", "Explore", and "Hidden Rail Gems". The main article title is "Kyoto Considers Dual Pricing on Public Transport", published by Andy B on February 16, 2025. The text discusses Kyoto's plan to introduce dual pricing on its public transport network to combat overtourism. A "SHARE" button with a Twitter icon is visible in the bottom right corner. The background of the page features a stylized illustration of a traditional Japanese building and a setting sun.

Kyoto Considers Dual Pricing on Public Transport

BY ANDY B · PUBLISHED FEBRUARY 16, 2025 · UPDATED FEBRUARY 16, 2025

The Japanese city of Kyoto is looking to introduce a dual pricing system on its public transport network, charging tourists more than locals to help tackle overtourism.
